Accordingly when the Court met at 2 P. M. Vasquez was brought in and pleaded not guilty to each of three indictments, after which Judge Darwin applied for continuance, on the grounds that A. Levia, witness for the State, who was indicted with Morena, will deny he killed any of the men at Tres Pinos; that a witness for the defense, Lucena Corenga, will swear that Levia told him after the tragedy he (Levia) killed two of the men, and Morena and defendant killed the other; that witness Corenza resides with his family in the country but is now absent on a mining expedition and can't be in attendance at this term of Court; that defendant knows of no other witness by whom he can prove these facts; that defendant has sent subpoenas for eight more witnesses in Fresno county, and said subpoenas had also been sent to Benito county for five witnesses, only three of which have been served and none of them are in court. The defense further avers that the main witness for the State, Levia, thirsts for his blood on account of fancied domestic wrong. The defendant will prove by his witnesses that Levia is the man who committed the murders, and that Vasquez is innocent. The defendant also avers he is not only innocent of the murders but that he never countenanced the commission of any murder; on the contrary, he endeavored at all times to prevent bloodshed. He may be a robber but he is not a murderer. Judge Belden granted the application and continued the case for the term. It will come up for trial January 5th at 10 A. M.

MOULTON AND THE WOODHULL

Gath has interviewed Moulton again. Here is a part of the interview:

"You are accused, Mr Moulton, of bringing Mr Beecher and Mrs. Woodhull into your family."

"There is nothing in my family to fear. My wife is a broad-minded, self-preserving woman, able to take care of herself. We accept life on the theory of human imperfection. I was struck with the unexpected modesty of Mrs. Woodhull, and said, 'Emma, I want you to take a look at that woman and tell me what you think of her.' We treated her with the courtesy the case required, and by placing her under a higher motive than had generally been imputed to her, that of mercy and sacrifice, we had the scandal suppressed for a year and a half. We abandoned her only when we found there was an adverse influence we could not overreach."

"What was that?"

"The want and persecution she had suffered—driven out of hotels and boarding houses, and besides there was at her elbow old Stephen Pearl Andrews pushing her on to prove society falsely constructed. Two ladies of the Beecher family, Mrs Stowe one of them, in the Christian Union grossly abused Mrs. Woodhull. I never heard her utter an immodest word, and if I could tolerate Mr Beecher in my family after what I knew of him, why not Mrs Woodhull? The Woodhull experience was a mere episode to us. Mrs. Woodhull admired Theodore, who did not reciprocate, and Beecher admired Mrs Woodhull. The public have always had the wrong end of this scandal."

AN ELEGANT AND CHASTE OPINION OF BEECHER

"The reason I cannot make the evidence exonerate Beecher is that he is the guilty party. He was before a libertine and a minister. He is now a liar and a sneak. No word can be coined until the day of eternity to describe the man's perfidy to me. By the advice of attorneys he has brutalized this issue to the last degree and made the only noble deed of years a subject of accusation of blackmail against a man whom but a week before he clasped in his arms and called the noblest friend God ever made for him."

"Do you mean that in assisting Mr. Tilton's paper surreptitiously through you he was serving justice?"

"Yes, I say that, having crushed that man like a coward—first abusing his hospitality and his household, and then meanly having him discharged by Bowen to keep him poor and uninfluential—Mr. Beecher could do no less in his contrite moments than to help Tilton's paper on its feet. He has now sworn away that solitary act of atonement by calling the thing blackmail. There is no hell he has not aroused. If he believes the Christian religion he is a damned man."

MOULTON'S TROUBLE WITH THE NATIONAL REVENUE

"What is your trouble with the Government recently compounded, Mr Moulton?"

"Merely this: To preserve intact our large warehousing business we paid $30,000 for a violation of the warehouse system without our knowledge—delivering goods without permit. It was thought by our counsel that to maintain our friendly relations with the Government, we had better pay it, as the offense was no doubt committed and the Government could not sacrifice its system of fines and forfeitures for any house. That case has no more to do with Beecher than he has to do with a godly life."

TILTON FAULTILY FAULTLESS, BEECHER A BEAST

"Mr Moulton, do you think Tilton will live through the long fight?"

"I do. He is very frugal and regular in his living. He does not smoke at all. He breakfasts light and drinks nothing but claret at meals. He has under ordinary circumstances a self-sustaining mind, fine health, and he has manners and speech of consummate delicacy. I never heard him utter a word that could not be heard in a parlor."

"Was Mr. Beecher equally circumspect?"

"No. The great animal! He confessed to me a matter of adultery with a lady which was the vilest I ever heard. It is the same lady, I think, as she to whom Bowen referred when he denounced Beecher to Tilton. The story goes that this was a damsel of some literary fame and personal graces who had been intended by Mr —— for his wife. While he was her patron Mr. Beecher seduced her. He denied a part of the circumstances in my presence, not denying the crime, and the denial was coarser than the crime. The lady has disappeared. Mr. Beecher has an enemy in the man who intended to make her his wife."

"FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD'S IGNOBLE STRIFE."

THE GREAT PREACHER AT TWIN MOUNTAIN—VISITING HIS COUNTRY PARISH

[Twin Mountain House, N. H., Aug. 27th, Dispatch to the New York World.]

So far as Mr. Beecher is concerned Mr. Moulton's statement will for the present receive no notice. A request from the Committee or advice from his friends may bring out a counter statement. In conversation to-day he remarked, referring to the copy of Mr. Moulton's statement given him Saturday: "In regard to that matter I have concluded not to say a word—no, not a word." Later in the day he was asked if his decision was final, and he said: "Yes. I have nothing to say. I say too much when I talk at all, and I have had to take a negative position in regard to all inquiries. I can speak only through my friends. You see it won't do for me to talk," and he went on in the same strain in answer to all inquiries. An allusion to the desire to obtain information directly from him led to his saying: "Yes, I should be very glad to oblige you. I have been treated in a very handsome and gentlemanlike way by your paper. I appreciate it deeply, very deeply. Now you must treat me exactly like a bit of pork—don't make me of any account, ask me what questions you please."

His first decision was reached before Mr. Moulton's statement was read to him by an acquaintance. He talks on all other subjects, and yesterday evening spoke of his preaching here. It will continue each Sunday till the last week in September. "I call this my country parish," said he, "and take it up regularly each summer. I can always see when I come up here that the tendency in a hotel like this is to break up into cliques, but something of a human interest binds the people together. They come to feeling like a big family, and I think that is one of the reasons why they enjoy themselves here." The family feeling is pretty strong, and Mr. Beecher is father of all concerned. He is the central figure everywhere—yesterday at the religious services morning and night, whether he preached or listened, and to-night again at a charade party. People flock to the edge of the broad piazza when he comes in from the croquet ground with an armful of mallets to hear his gleeful "Our side beat—we won the last game." By some happy faculty he knows every one, new comer or old, and the "good morning," collective and individual, he beams on the old hundred or so in the dining room as he enters it for breakfast would last through the day if it was not repeated at each meal. His country parish extends a good way beyond the hotel. He is known by all the families around, and some of them have solid reasons to remember him. One farmer near here with his farm heavily mortgaged found the mortgage paid off last year through Mr Beecher's efforts. Besides pastoral work of this practical kind and his weekly sermons Mr Beecher devotes little time to labor. A drive or a trip up or down on the railroad takes up the forenoon, and after dinner he picks up the short, heavy mallet which is his favorite, and once on the croquet ground does not leave it till it is too dark to see. Occasionally he tries the bowling alleys, but of late finds the exercise too violent. Croquet is his favorite game.

Mr Beecher went over to Littleton to-day to sign a paper in which he denies all the charges made against him by Tilton.

It's pretty cold up here. There was a sharp frost last night, but Mr. Beecher got enough interested in his game to-day to attack it in his shirt-sleeves. To see him rushing from wicket to post, dropping on his knees to sight the shots, rejoicing over the discomfiture of his adversaries and driving his ball along to victory was a revelation of what can be done when the man and mallet come together. Next week Mr Beecher goes up to the Summit of Mount Washington for a day, but besides this he has as yet planned no excursion from the hotel. After leaving here about Sept. 24 he will pass a short time in Peekskill before returning to Brooklyn.

THE OTHER SIDE

DALLAS, Sept. [illegible], 1874.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The representation of the case of Rev. J. James of this place has been going the round of the newspapers—first in the Dallas Republican, secondly in the [illegible], thirdly in the [illegible], and lastly repeated in the Republican.

It appears that Jim has been brought in to make odium the M. E. Conference and exculpate the Rev. James from the dilemma into which he has unfortunately fallen. We would not pluck a laurel from his brow, nor lower him in the estimation of the public, but we must maintain the action of the M. E. Conference in his behalf as the best that could be done under the circumstances. We shall endeavor to show however to the public that the citizens of this place and vicinity view the matter in a different light than is represented by the pettifogger, under the fictitious name of "Justice," through the columns of the infantile sheet the Republican, and also to give an inkling how the reverend Postmaster got his position, which was offered as an evidence of the esteem in which he was held.

Rev. Mr. James was sent on this circuit three years ago. [illegible] year passed away without any marked displeasure of Divine Providence. He was sent the second year, during which he complained of the arduous duties he had to perform through rain and hail and snow. The third year he was sent again, but as the Rev. Nichols had engaged to teach the Academy at Dallas it was deemed expedient by the Conference to appoint him assistant on the circuit, as the elder brother was reluctant to facing the storms of winter and undergoing the fatigues of traveling the circuit. So Mr Nichols came on accordingly, rendering assistance as circumstances seemed to demand, however not receiving a cent of the salary, as the correspondent of the Republican represented that he did. A jealousy on the part of Mr James seemed to grow out of the state of affairs, or for some other reason he resigned his pastorship. Very shortly after, to the astonishment of all, he received the appointment of Postmaster. How he got his appointment was soon traced to its source.

Mr G. W. Hobart was at that time Postmaster at Dallas, serving under a legitimate appointment and giving entire satisfaction to the patrons of the postoffice, with the exception of this same pettifogger correspondent of the Republican, who, it afterward appeared, was the sole manufacturer of a code of lies which was forwarded to the Hipple-Mitchell machine, urging Hobart's speedy removal and James' appointment to the position. The machine was set at work and James came out a postmaster. James was shown a copy of the manufactured charges against Hobart which a majority of the patrons of the office declared false by setting their names to a certificate to that effect. Now it looks as though a minister of the Gospel, a teacher among men, a disciple of the Lord, one who says "do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you," would have some conscientious scruples against accepting a position over his fellow—especially one whom he claimed fellowship with in the Church of God. Notwithstanding all, Mr. James accepted the situation under all these circumstances, and we leave the matter for a discriminating public to decide whether it is evidence in favor of his moral character, and in regard to his efficiency and unacceptability, "The Lord save us and deliver us from future calamity," and "Woodman, spare that tree."

SILETZ RESERVATION

A MISTAKE CORRECTED—GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE AGENCY

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In your weekly issue of the 20th August I noticed an item from the Benton Democrat, stating that the Commissioner who has lately made an examination of affairs at the Siletz Agency will recommend the removal of the Indians to Grand Ronde reservation, and the throwing open of Siletz reservation to settlement. It is also stated that the Government has made no appropriation to pay indebtedness already contracted by the Agent, and has set apart but $7,000 for the support of this Agency the ensuing year.

If the Commissioner mentioned in the above extract refers to Gen. Vandever, Inspector of Indian Agencies, who has lately paid this Agency the only official visit received this year, the Democrat is strangely misinformed in every particular. I have the best reasons for saying that Gen. Vandever recommended just the contrary.

He certainly expressed the highest satisfaction at the improvement manifested, and complimented Agent and employes on the manner in which they had performed their duties. He is still in the State, and any one feeling sufficient interest in the matter can ascertain from himself his opinion.

The Government has appropriated funds to pay the indebtedness contracted by the Agent prior to the last session of Congress, and the amount set apart for the service at this Agency the ensuing year is not $7,000 but more than twice that amount.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
J. H. FAIRCHILD
Indian Agent at Siletz.

VESSELS IN DISTRESS

The bark Constitution was last week obliged to put into the harbor of Port Townsend in distress. Her owner, Mr H. Richard, a year or two ago lost a vessel in Cook's Inlet on the coast of Alaska, twelve or fifteen hundred miles to the northwest of here, and after the Constitution had delivered a cargo at Ounalaska she was to enter the Inlet and remove all that remained of value from the wreck. She ran in at the right place and threw out both anchors, the Captain with a man or two going ashore in the ship's boat. While they were surveying the scene of previous disaster and planning their future operations, a violent wind suddenly sprang up and forced the vessel off rapidly, dragging both anchors, compelling the cutting of both cables. She was then driven out to sea and was unable to return until near the expiration of the third day. The Captain and companions left in that bleak barren and desolate spot without food or bedding, a thousand miles from white settlements, were, as may be imagined, in a very unpleasant situation, and their joy was unbounded when they again trod the deck of the Constitution. Nothing could be done in such a place without their anchors and cables, and the bark was turned south and ran into Port Townsend as first stated. The vessels of Hanson, Ackerson & Co. are always provided with an extra supply of such articles to insure their safety in times of peril, and on this occasion an abundance of chain was furnished the bark from the Dashing Wave, the steamer North Pacific taking it down to her on Wednesday night. Old Puget Sounders will remember the Constitution as the mail steamer on this route in 1858.—Tacoma Tribune.

DEATH OF PIERRE BLOT.—Prof. Pierre Blot, the famous culinary artist, who bears a world-wide reputation, died Tuesday night, August 29th, at the residence of his son on the corner of Jackson and Atlantic avenues, Jersey City Heights.

In some parts of Umatilla county the dogs are altogether too much for the sheep, and either sheep raising or dog raising will have to succumb.

The march of improvement has reached Weston, and we are called upon to chronicle the erection of a brick store in that town. Weston promises to be a place of some note.

In the great race at Union on the 1st, mile heats, best three in five, for $2,000, between Ross' mare Trifle and La Beuf's horse Buckskin, the former won in three straight heats. Time—1:42, 1:43½, 1:44.

The other day a little daughter of a farmer named Anderson, of Umatilla county, while carrying a smaller child, stumbled and fell into a tub of hot water. Both were badly scalded, but it is thought they will recover.

Abbott of the Pendleton Tribune says he once examined Ben Hayden as to the latter's qualifications to teach school, and that Ben says that he sweat more profusely than he ever did before or since while so doing.

John Cushon, of Jacksonville, has been held to answer a charge of an attempt to commit rape, and his bond fixed at $30. The Justice who held him to answer must be a believer in the clause of the United States Constitution which says "exorbitant bail shall not be required."

An Indian recently made arrangements with the artist at Pendleton to have a picture of his klootchman taken, so when she was properly seated, and while the artist was rubbing up the plate preparatory to catching the shadow ere the substance fade, the buck looked through the camera and saw the image of his beloved wife in a reversed position. In fact she was standing on her head. This was more than even an Indian could stand, so he annulled the contract, took his klootchman and departed.

W. C. Mayer, of Ashland, started last Wednesday for Union county, Oregon, and Walla Walla, W. T., with two thoroughbred Percheron and one half blood colts. He is desirous of introducing his fine stock in that section of the country. The colts he took with him are fine specimens of the Percheron stock. Their names are as follows: Marshal Ney, year past, weighing 1,340 pounds; Lady Gray, half blood, two years old last July, weighing 1,460 pounds; Louisa, three years old, weighing 1,620 pounds.

A HUGE SCHEME

COMBINATION OF EASTERN CAPITALISTS, GRAIN DEALERS AND FARMERS

New York, Sept. 3.—The Express, referring to the recent combination of capitalists, grain dealers, etc., noticed a few days ago, says according to the plan the producers of the West and the buyers of the East are to be brought into direct communication with no middlemen, to abolish the profits. Sales to be made by telegraph. The London agent will sell ten thousand tons of wheat to deliver in thirty days at ruling rates, and telegraph the transaction to New York and Chicago to fill the order. It is said that parties forming the combination have plenty of funds to prosecute the scheme. Farmers will make prompt sales at London prices, less commissions, and Mark Lane will establish the price of wheat and other grains the world over. The originators of the new scheme, it is said, have quietly made contracts with several leading steamship and railroad companies for a cheap and uniform rate of freight. This union is thought to be the most expeditious way of getting around a great difficulty. The promoters of the enterprise say they will be ready to begin operations about October 15th, about which time the movement of the Western crops and the foreign demand will have fairly set in. They are rapidly putting the necessary machinery in order to proceed at once to business. The headquarters of the company are established at 24 Pine street, New York.

A TALK WITH MR. TILTON.—A reporter of the Herald called at the residence of Mr. Tilton in Livingston street last evening, for the purpose of obtaining his views upon the reported official transcript of the testimony of Bessie, the adopted daughter, before the Plymouth church Investigating Committee. Mr. Tilton declined to give any opinion upon the statement whatever. When asked whether there was any truth whatever in the allusions to Miss Susan B. Anthony made by Bessie before the committee, Mr. Tilton replied, with an air of solemnity: "I tremble and shiver to answer until I hear what my venerable friend Susan B. Anthony has to say concerning the embarrassing situation in which we were both unhappily caught that evening. My anxiety is not concerning Bessie, but Susan. Little Bessie's accusation sits far more lightly on my head than dear good Susan sat upon my knee. I don't say that Susan would do the same thing now, but she was younger then. You need not press me further. I shall not for Susan's sake deny it. There have been too few confessions of the plain truth in this controversy."

Thanking Mr. Tilton for his courtesy in furnishing the above explanatory and gratifying statement of a most important episode in Bessie's testimony, the writer withdrew, meditating upon the effect which the perusal of the above will have upon the delicate nerves of the venerable spinster whose name is so widely known and respected in the great field of feminine reform.—N. Y. Herald Aug 25.

A LETTER FROM REV. T. K. BEECHER.—Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, in a letter to the Elmira Gazette, published this afternoon, says in substance that his letter to his sister, Mrs. Hooker, was aimed simply to caution and dissuade her from an act of fanaticism. It was written without other knowledge of facts than such as she stated and such as were sincerely believed by her, to avoid controversy. The truth of her allegations was assumed. Since 1854 he has not had two hours' conversation with his honored brother Henry Ward, and he cannot recall at any time ever having had a discussion with him on the subject of free-love, marriage, divorce, the relation of the sexes or female suffrage. He disclaims therefore being a competent witness as to his brother's views on such subjects. The difference of views between himself and his brother he thinks are to his brother's credit and his own discredit, his brother being a believer in the nobility of human nature, and himself believing human nature bad.

JUSTICE TO BEECHER AND TO HISTORY.—In referring to the letter of denial of Mr. Beecher regarding his supposed speech in favor of hanging Jeff Davis, the Courier Journal says: "It is due to the truth of history, as well as to Mr. Beecher, that the letter addressed to the editor of the Courier Journal and published in this morning's issue be generally printed in the South. The fact may not extenuate Mr. Beecher's guilt, but it is a fact that since the close of the war his sectional opinions and utterances have been altogether liberal. He made the best speech of the season in 1866 against the Radical policy of oppression, and came very near having himself read out of the Republican party for his heterodox views on reconstruction."

Artesian wells are to be tried in Walla Walla Valley if $1,000 can be raised to make the experiment.

A Boise hoodlum evidently thinks of starting a paper. He was caught stealing type from the Statesman office.

On Tuesday of last week Jack Frost gently nipped the foliage of the sweet potato vine for the people in Boise valley.

John and Isaac Newton, aged respectively 19 and 17, and former residents of Walla Walla, have been arrested at Silver City for horse stealing.

It is currently reported that many of the Mormons married in the Endowment House propose getting re-married according to the laws of the land.

Rev. C. Smith, formerly of Portland, is now preaching on Beaver circuit in Utah, to which he was appointed by the late Conference of the M. E. Church at Salt Lake.

Jim Burns was kicked by a horse and dangerously hurt, between Boise and Silver City, one day last week. He has been peddling between Silver and Dixie valley.

Company B of the Second Cavalry have distinguished themselves by knocking spots out of a gang of Arapahoes, who had gone on a little raid in the Powder river country.

From Colville we learn that the recently discovered mines on the Columbia amount to nothing, and their richness only exists in the imagination of the party who started the report.

On Tuesday of last week a young man named Frece was arrested by Constable Thompson at Walla Walla on the complaint of Benj. Geary, who alleges that Frece, on or about the 20th of August, stole one of his horses.

The Santa Fe New Mexican says that the Luna Brothers of Los Lunas, New Mexico, have contracted to furnish Messrs. Saffenberg & Ellis with 800,000 lbs of corn, with which to fill their contract with the Government at Camp Apache. Mr. Ellis also purchased from the same parties about 75,000 lbs of wool.

A citizen of Prescott has a letter from a friend in the States which states that in the States the present (absent) agent for the Colorado river Indian reserve, Dr. Tonner (?), went under the name of Dr. "Turner," and now he figures in the San Francisco papers as Dr. "Taver," while the Indians who speak some English call him Dr. "Take-all-for-himself."

The proprietor of the steamboat Forty-nine, which is on a prospecting tour, having started for the Upper Columbia from Colville some three weeks ago, proposes on the return of the boat to break it up and transport the machinery and such other parts as can be used in the construction of a new boat, to Wallula, where, if sufficient encouragement is offered, he will build a boat to ply between that point and Celilo.

The flora of the Wasatch range is unsurpassed in the world. Recently some miners in prospecting the peaks beyond Parley's Canyon, having an eye for the beautiful of nature, thought to count the different varieties of flowers which wasted their fragrance on the mountain air and bloomed and blossomed unseen. With a line they drew a circle, and in a radius of forty feet, they counted sixty three varieties.

Capt. A. H. Nickerson, formerly of this city, but now Adjutant General of the Department of Arizona, has prepared an extended list of questions concerning the Indian tribes in the Department, which he is sending to persons throughout the Territory. From the answers he will receive from well informed parties, it is probable that we shall gain a great deal of valuable information—the characteristics of the tribes of which most people know so little.

Rufus King, who was convicted of the crime of embezzlement, at the last November term of court in Boise City, and sentenced to "six months' confinement at hard labor in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $2,000," was up before U. S. Commissioner [illegible] on the 2d inst., and it appearing that he had served out the time for which he was sentenced, and it also appearing that he had no property nor any means whatever to pay the fine imposed upon him by the court, the U. S. Commissioner ordered Marshal Pinkham to release him.

Patrick Addison (colored) has commenced suit at Walla Walla against D. Darling for defamation of character, laying his damages at $5,000. The plaintiff, in his complaint for cause of action, alleges: "That on or about the 1st day of July, 1874, the defendant, in the presence and hearing of Jesse Cody, maliciously spoke of and concerning the plaintiff in the following defamatory words: 'I understand that damned old nigger (meaning plaintiff) is going to prosecute me for saying he stole a hog,' to which remark Cody replied, 'Did he steal a hog?' to which defendant answered, 'Yes, certainly he did.'" In addition to the foregoing, plaintiff alleges that the defendant on one occasion charged him with stealing 16 sacks of wheat.

Mr. N. P. Langford, who has recently returned from a visit to the National Park, brought back with him some rare and beautiful specimens of nature's handiwork in that region of prolific wonders. Among these are the most striking and unique of all, are a number of filigree incrustations secured by suspending open wrought baskets, egg-holders, and the like, made of small twisted wire, in the mineral impregnated waters flowing down the mountain side and forming what are known as the Mammoth Hot Springs. These baskets, after being suspended in the air with a current of this water pouring over them for a period of four or five days, are taken down thoroughly coated in purest alabaster white to the thickness of a sixteenth of an inch or more, forming some of the handsomest combined specimens of art and nature to be seen anywhere.

From a gentleman just from Colville the Walla Walla Statesman learns that the Indians are anxious that some definite action be had in relation to their proposed reservation. The reserve formerly set apart for their use they refuse to occupy, and those who have examined the matter and who are not prejudiced are represented as justifying the course the Indians have taken. There are several thousand Indians interested in having this question settled, and it is deemed best by those who are familiar with the subject that the matter be disposed of as speedily as possible. Gen. Van Deweer, Inspector of Indian Affairs for this District, is on his way to Walla Walla, and it is thought that he will leave there on Monday, in company with Mr. John A. Simms, for Colville, where he will ascertain the views and wishes of the leading Indians.

The Arizona Miner, of August 21st, says: "Lieut. C. D. Parkhurst, Fifth Cavalry, commanding Camp McDowell, communicated by telegraph, yesterday, the important intelligence of the arrival at his post of the Apache chief Disalin, and twenty of our Apache soldiers who had been out scouting from San Carlos in pursuance of instructions from Major Babcock. They had made a very careful search through the mountains between San Carlos and Verde river, finding one rancheria in the vicinity of Tonto Creek, and taking it after killing eight men. One hundred and nineteen prisoners were captured and delivered into the hands of the military at Camp McDowell. Among the captives is a brother of Delt-che. They also brought along Delt-che's head. The band struck by them must have been the remnants of Chacohay's party of renegades, who have lurked around the Matitzal range since early last spring. This one scout made solely by our Apache soldiers is an eloquent tribute to the influence exercised over them by our Army officers at the San Carlos reserve. Disalin, the chief in command, surrendered last April, and has since shown himself anxious to make a good record to obliterate a remembrance of the past." Lieut. Parkhurst is son-in-law of R. R. Thompson, Esq., of this city.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 8, 187[illegible]

A CONVENTION TO RELIEVE THE SOUTH.

A great Republican Convention is announced to be held at Atlanta, Georgia. The object of this convention is stated to be the consideration of measures for the relief of the South from the misrule and anarchy that prevail in that portion of the Republic at present; and it is intimated that some of the States are to be reconstructed again. Every person who has paid the slightest attention to political matters of late will agree at once there is need of measures to relieve that unhappy section from its present distressing situation. The scenes of disorder and bloodshed that have made the Mexican and South American republics a by-word throughout the civilized world have been nothing worse than those that have been witnessed in various Southern States lately. The remedy cannot come too soon, nor be too radical. Something should be done at once and done thoroughly.

It is, however, a rather singular fact that this convention is to be a partisan affair. Why should it be exclusively Republican? The administration of the laws, the preservation of the peace and good order of the community should be non-partisan and above the plane of partisan politics. Have the Democratic and Independent people of the South, comprising a large majority of the white population, no [illegible] in the subject to be considered by this convention? They are citizens. They are certainly as intelligent and as conservative as most of the Republicans of those parts. They were born in those States, and have raised up their families there. Why are they not to be consulted in a matter that touches all their interests, material and social?

The explanation may be in a feeling of remorse entertained by the Republican managers, for the wretched failure they have made and the misery they have caused, in their attempts to govern the South through the carpet-baggers. It may, perhaps, be the first outcroppings of a laudable purpose to reform through their own party, those abuses for which themselves are responsible. If this is the true explanation, their motives are certainly praiseworthy, though even under this assumption we should doubt the correctness of their judgment. It is small concession to say they were honest in their opinion that the policy which has proved a failure and a calamity to themselves and the Southern people, was the best that could be pursued. But in this concession is implied the assertion that they were grossly incompetent. Who shall say they are less incompetent now?

It is eminently proper that there be a convention of the most thoughtful and conservative men of the South to consider the condition of affairs in the South. But a political partisan convention can do no possible good. The convention that can serve the people there must be one that commands the respect and has the confidence of all classes of the people. A party convention will only serve to draw party lines more closely, and intensify the hostility between the two classes. People who are forced to live in the same community should be brought into mutual good understanding rather than separated and arrayed against each other. Too much party is the bane of the South already, and this proposed partisan gathering can hardly fail to make the matter worse.

MORE SHIPS WITHOUT CARGOES.

More ships arrive and still none obtain charters. The deadlock in wheat [illegible] no more likely to break up than it did two weeks ago. Yet, while it can not be said with certainty that the difficulty will disappear when the harvest is over, it is hoped such will be the case. No matter what the price of wheat might be, the grain could not be shipped before it was reaped. The ships that have come in this season are entirely too early for our latitude. In 1873, when our harvest was early, only four cargoes were shipped before the first of September, and those were in the latter part of August. This year, when the harvest is at least three weeks later, a dozen or more ships are waiting for cargoes as early as the middle of August. It could not be expected under such circumstances they would be loaded forthwith. Considering the difference of season, it is relatively as early yet as it was last year when the very first cargoes left the river.

And it must not be overlooked that the low price of grain would naturally tend to hold it back [illegible], even though there were no settled determination among the farmers to hold for some particular price. [illegible] are never so willing to sell, when prices rule very low. High prices always make brisk markets. This year wheat is low—very much lower than the farmers anticipated it would be; and the farmers, whether resolved to hold on to the last or not, have not made haste to contract with the shippers. It may be that many of the producers have determined not to part with their crops at present prices. In fact we have reason to suppose such is the case. But this will not be general, nor nearly so. The majority will sell when they get through harvesting, which we are assured will be not before two weeks more. There will unquestionably be cargoes for all the [illegible] yet arrived.

The farmers cannot fail to see that the decline in breadstuffs has resulted from abundant production in the great grain producing countries and that consequently no immediate improvement in the market can be reasonably expected. If the low price of grain were the result of a combination among operators to bear the market, the safe course for the producers to pursue would be to hold firm till the combination broke, as it would do inevitably; but the decline being the result simply of the operation of the inexorable law of supply and demand, it is irrational to calculate upon better prices, except as the same cause produces them, which can [illegible] be while the present supply remains unconsumed. Those who hold their crops must make up their [illegible] hold till next season, if they [illegible] any benefit from the improvement of the market, and they must take the chances of finding next season a repetition of this.

We do not assume to advise the farmers, as they know their own business and may be relied upon to take care of it; we merely mention the elements that necessarily enter into the problem they are solving for themselves. Meanwhile it can not be too strongly impressed upon shippers and shipowners that the middle of September is quite as early as any vessel should come to the Columbia river with the expectation of obtaining a cargo at once. Vessels arriving earlier than that will always be subject to the probability of delay.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE PRESS.

Judge Poland, of Vermont, has been for some time a member of Congress and enjoys something of national reputation. He is a Republican and a man of very respectable talents. In his district, under ordinary circumstances, he could be nominated and elected over any other aspirant to the National House of Representatives. But at the late election in that State he was beaten, under circumstances that illustrate very forcibly the power of the press. Judge Poland, at the last session of Congress, secured the passage of the law commonly spoken of as the "Press Gag Law." Why it should be so denominated we have never been able clearly to see, as it was about as harmless as the Pope's bull against the comet. It may have been intended, however, in some remote way, to curtail the independence of the press, and, notwithstanding the attempts to apply it for that purpose have proved that if such was its purpose, it was a complete failure, the newspapers in general, accepting the will for the deed, opened to their batteries on Poland. He rose to explain, and his explanation, well reasoned as we thought, so far satisfied the members of the Convention of his party in his district that he received the renomination which he was seeking. But the newspapers did not accept the explanation. They declared war against him and against the Convention that nominated him, and Mr. Dennison, another Republican,—his competitor before the Convention in fact—was brought out as independent candidate. Then Poland laughed. The Democrats had their regular candidate in the field also. When the votes came to be counted, after the election, the Independent man had more votes than Poland, notwithstanding he received none but Republican votes. He led both Poland and the Democratic candidate. Thus it was demonstrated that when the "howling pack" open upon a man, and are sustained by a belief in the righteousness of their course, that man, howsoever talented and popular cannot afford to treat the matter with that contempt which Mr. B. F. Butler is accustomed to affect toward the press. The trial of strength between the press and the politicians has taken place on a field the least favorable to the former; but the victory of the press was complete and so easily won that the struggle was no struggle.

SHIPPING TURNED BACK.

Whatever may be the true explanation of the present deadlock in the wheat market it is certain to do the interests of the State a deal of harm. We have perfectly reliable information that several ships, originally destined for the Columbia river to load with wheat, have been stopped by telegraph. These ships were to arrive here in December. For our own part, we have not the slightest doubt that the market will be entirely free long before that time; but shipowners of course do not wish to take any chances in the premises, when there are steadier trades to be cultivated. Not less than ten ships are known already to have been stopped or turned back from coming here, on account of the unfortunate situation. It is a hard blow to the infant commerce of our State.

MORE OF COOS BAY.

EASTPORT, COOS BAY, Sept. 1, 1874.

The more Coos Bay is examined in detail the more it appears to advantage in natural beauty, fine scenery, material wealth and great resources. Its vast forests of all kinds of the best firs, pine, white cedar and other choice timber will be sufficient to meet the wants of the Pacific coast for centuries, and be a source of wealth to the State for ages. There is a regular fleet of vessels from the bay, supplying the San Francisco market with lumber, that make the round trip once a month. At least 3,000,000 feet of white cedar are shipped to that port every year.

MR. H. H. LUSE'S

Mill, at Empire City, has a capacity of cutting 25,000 feet of lumber daily; the quantity for the year will average 15,000 a day. He contemplates building a new one of greatly enlarged capacity. He is one of the leading men of the bay, has the reputation of being a good business man, and successful in all his enterprises. His store at Empire is among the best in the State outside of Portland; he built another store last year on the adjoining block almost as good. It is occupied as a drug store, postoffice, Wells, Fargo & Co's express, and is elegantly finished. A part of the building is occupied as the Custom-House, and the printing establishment of the Coos Bay News.

THE NORTH BEND MILL,

Owned by Messrs. Simpson Bros. & Co., is one of the most beautiful locations on Coos Bay,—the most complete in its details and perfect in its arrangements and discipline. It is the pioneer mill of the bay and the most successful. The average capacity of the mill is 27,000 feet daily. San Francisco is the principal market. Mr. Simpson resides and represents the firm there. He is one of the largest operators in lumber in that extensive market, is known as an able and successful financier and a man of great intellectual courage and fortitude. Capt. Robert Simpson superintends the business at North Bend. The good taste, excellent order and perfect discipline manifest in all the departments, shows that a master mind rules there.

The firm is as distinguished for its successful ship building as it is for its lumber business. They have now on the stocks the largest sailing ship ever built on the Pacific coast, at a cost of $75,000. Her keel is 180 feet, her beam is 40 feet and her hold 21 feet. She will be ready for sea about the 1st of November, and is intended for the Liverpool trade. She will take her first cargo in wheat from Portland or San Francisco. She will load 2,000 tons. The success of the firm as ship builders is [illegible] much owing to the experience of Capt. Robert Simpson both as a builder and a commander, and the fact that the heads of departments are competent, reliable men. Their tow-boat F[illegible], built last year for tow. go on the bay, is the perfection of beauty of model and of great power. In the shipyard there are 65 [illegible] employed; 34 men in the mill and store, and 70 men in the different logging camps. The firm has a large sawmills at Gardner and Crescent City.

E. B. DEAN & CO'S

Sawmill, at Marshfield, is the largest one on the bay; it cuts an average of 35,000 feet of lumber per day, principally fir, cedar and spruce. San Francisco is the principal market. They have a ship-yard also, in which five vessels have been built by the former proprietor. This firm intend to commence building next spring; they own the celebrated tugboat Escort, modeled and built by Mr. John Howlett, one of the best ship-builders on this coast. About forty men are employed in the mill and store, besides the men engaged in logging. Mr. Merchant, the managing partner, ranks among the best business men on the bay for capacity, experience and integrity.

MARSHFIELD

Is considered the best location for business on the bay; it is the central place for the majority of the tributaries to the bay and all the coal banks yet opened. There is ample accommodation for travelers in the Central and Western Hotels and four very good stores for trading. The population is at least 400 and increasing more rapidly than any town on the bay. It would probably double its number of buildings and inhabitants in two more years but for the fact that the title is in dispute and will not likely be settled for some time. Mr. H. H. Luse has the inside track at present. The merits of the case I do not understand, and it is not my business to interfere in such matters.

EMPIRE CITY

Is located four miles from the entrance to the bay, and has advantages for shipping. The fact of it being the countyseat is an important item in its favor, and the first point where all shipping reaches on arrival, and the last place for calling on departing. There are several fine stores, two or three hotels, several private boarding houses and some very neat dwelling houses and neat cottages. Mrs. Lockhart's hotel is greatly enlarged during the year, and certainly as comfortable as any hotel in the State. Her energy, taste and attention to boarders and visitors, and her success, are worthy of all praise and the patronage of travelers. She is ably sustained in her business by the co-operation of her beautiful and accomplished daughters and attentive son.

Mr. H. H. Luse, Mr. Geo. Cammon, Mr. D. Morse, Jr., and others will long sustain the business reputation of Empire City. The opening of the coal mine at this place by a large California company, represented by Jones, will add considerably to the population, business and wealth of Empire City. This valuable mine will be in operation about November. There is a grand future before Coos Bay and its tributaries and Coos county.

There is ample room and profitable employment for good, steady coal miners, lumbermen, all departments of sawmilling, ship building, small farmers that know how to clear timbered land and that are not afraid to encounter hardship.

Losses and Insurance.—The losses and insurance of the fire on Sunday evening are as follows Mr J Fleischner's loss from water and removal is estimated at about $3 000 He is insured for $7 000—$5 000 in the London Liverpool and Globe Insurance Company and $2 000 in the Home Mutual Mr Geo A Pease estimates his loss at about $5 000 At the time he was carrying a stock valued at $16,000 He is insured for $6 000 $2 000 in the London Liverpool and Globe and $4 000 in the Fireman's Fund All the stock was removed from the building but not until a large portion of it was badly damaged by the water As yet these losses are but little better than guess work Some time will have to elapse before the damage can be estimated with certainty and that only by a Board of Appraisers appointed by the underwriters Mr Hendee, who occupied the second story over Mr Pease's store lost everything and was not insured for a dollar His loss will not be far short of $. 000 Including buildings stock etc the loss will probably reach $12 000 with a total insurance of $13 000 The wooden buildings belonged to Mrs Chas Goodnough They are damaged to the extent of about $1 500 no insurance

Court Martial.—The general court martial now being held in this city convened yesterday morning A full board was present Gen Eaton was recalled and testified after which the prosecution rested their case Walter C Tomes, who was driving the stage at the time Maj. Eggleston is alleged to have been robbed—January 1871—near Reno, Nevada, was called and testified at considerable length in behalf of the accused The court then adjourned until this morning Lieut Jones of Fort Cape Disappointment appeared as counsel for the accused and conducted the defense As we are not allowed to publish the evidence in the case we are therefore unable to lay before readers anything tending to establish the guilt of the accused, or to his exoneration

Mr Reid should in future, caution his Scotch shipping company not to send their ships to this port sooner than the end of September

A Considerate Son.—Our city schools opened yesterday The hopeful son of one citizen had made up his mind that he wouldn't attend this term, and at the proper hour refused to take his books and start, when he was thus addressed by his sensible father "Take your books and toddle right off my son You can go of your own accord with the sweet smile of content wreathing your youthful mouth and illuminating your face or you can be led there by the ear, on an empty stomach and with the prospect of a thorough and soul [illegible] whipping in the near future " The lad took his books and walked off alone He said he would never put so good a father as he had to unnecessary trouble

A ROBBERY CONFESSED

One Eugene St Clair who in company with a man named Palmer effected an escape from the county jail some weeks ago, is too well known to our readers to require any introduction in this connection Yesterday we were shown a letter written by Dr John Jackson who resides near Sheridan Polk county This letter bears date August 29th and throws considerable light on a robbery committed by St Clair in that county a few days subsequent to his escape from jail The circumstances of this robbery are as follows

After Palmer and St Clair dug their way out of jail they started immediately for Washington county by way of the Canyon road On the same night these fellows broke jail a house in East Portland was burglarized and it was thought they were the guilty parties but it now appears that they did not cross the river at all At St Joe St Clair parted company with Palmer since which time he has not seen him St Clair continued on foot until he reached the farm of Dr Jackson He represented to that gentleman that he was a preacher was an Englishman by birth had arrived in Portland some time before in a ship coming as a sailor He said he was destitute and desired work Dr Jackson was very favorably impressed with St Clair, as he was a young, smart appearing fellow and withal could talk very smoothly So he took St Clair into his employ and gave him work to do on his farm This occurred about the 15th of last month St Clair continued to work about the farm for nearly two weeks during which time he was steady and faithful and demeaned himself so well as to secure the confidence of Mr Jackson Such a degree of confidence was reposed in him that he was allowed the liberty of the farm and house On Sunday evening 30th ult Dr Jackson was called away to see a patient None of the family were at home and St Clair was left in temporary charge of the place When Jackson returned home he found his man had taken French leave On looking about it was discovered that St Clair had broken open a money drawer and abstracted a considerable sum. There was in the drawer between one and two hundred dollars and Jackson could not determine the precise sum which was stolen However it was ascertained on St Clair's own confession that he had taken out $145 Jackson also discovered St Clair had taken away a small tent and a shotgun It seems that St Clair after leaving the place purchased a pony a roll of blankets and some provisions and started towards the mountains evidently bound for the coast When captured by Deputy Sheriff Dale of Yamhill county, he was mounted on the horse had the blankets, tent and provisions strapped on behind his saddle He also had the gun and $70 in coin on his person No confession was made by the prisoner as to how he came in possession of the property and money or from whom he had stolen it When St Clair was placed in jail the horse money, etc, were turned over to Sheriff Jeffery

Yesterday a grandson of Dr Jackson who resides in Portland received the letter before alluded to which details the circumstances briefly as we have stated them Soon after receiving the letter the young man repaired to the county jail and interviewed St Clair On exhibiting the letter the prisoner confessed without the slightest hesitation or embarrassment, the whole affair He said he only took just enough money out of the drawer to enable him to leave the country Dr Jackson had treated him very well during the time he was engaged on the farm and he had a great deal of respect for him For this reason the prisoner declared he did not take all the money he found in the drawer His intention was to reach the coast and then embark on some sailing vessel Sheriff Dale, however, prevented him from carrying out his design Mr Jackson has been written to about the admissions made by St Clair In a few days doubtless he will forward a written order so that the property and money found in the possession of the prisoner when captured can be returned to him St Clair it would thus appear, has two grave charges for which to answer at the next term of the Circuit Court

BOARD OF TRADE.

[ADJOURNED MEETING SEPTEMBER 7 1874]

The Portland Board of Trade met at their rooms pursuant to adjournment, Hon H W Corbett President in the Chair

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary and approved

A communication from the Secretary of the Land Department of the Oregon and California Railroad Company accompanying a circular giving a description of the advantages and resources and other statistical information concerning Oregon was read and the communication and circular were referred to the Committee on Statistics with instructions to report by resolutions

PORTLAND DALLES AND SALT LAKE RAILROAD

The select committee appointed to report upon the expediency of granting further State aid to the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad by Mr Russell their Chairman submitted their report, as follows

To the Members of the Portland Board of Trade The committee appointed to consider the expediency and practicability of granting additional State aid to assist in the construction of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad beg to report as follows

That the one thing needful to lift this State out of its present condition of stagnation is a large increase to its population

That without this increase business of all kinds will continue in a depressed condition the establishment of manufactories will be impracticable and the burden of taxes will bear heavily upon the few for many years to come

That the construction of a railway to connect Oregon with the Eastern States is the only practical means of relieving the State from its present isolation, and of rapidly acquiring population

That the experience of all the Western States during the past nine years gathered from published statistics is that the population has increased from 100 to 900 per cent shortly after the introduction of railways one State that of Kansas having increased from 10 000 to 100 000 the bulk of whom had gone there in four years

That your Committee while they are in favor of any railroad that will give the desired eastern connection are of the opinion that the construction of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad would benefit a larger section of Oregon and be more to the direct interest of this community than that of any other line contemplated

That in view of the vital importance of this connection they would earnestly recommend that substantial State aid be granted to assist in the construction of this road believing that the increased wealth and population which this railway would create would tend to lessen the amount of taxation and be of great and substantial benefit to the whole State

That among the advantages to be derived from the introduction of this railway would be a large and permanent increase of population an influx of capital the successful establishment of manufactories a constant supply of skilled farm labor an enhanced value of land throughout the State and a material reduction of individual taxation

Your Committee therefore recommend that the Legislature, as a measure of the first importance should so modify the act passed at the last session granting the swamp lands and the 5 per cent fund in aid of the construction of certain sections of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad that the consideration for the work to be performed by said company may be available as the work progresses not exceeding in the aggregate after the work is completed the sum of $50 000 per annum nor for a longer period than twenty years, (provided that the Congressional aid now asked for be granted) and that the State should appropriate a sufficient sum of money to defray the preliminary expenses of prosecuting this enterprise and that the Legislature should be petitioned to this effect

PH C SCHUYLER
H C LEONARD

Mr Schuyler moved that the report be adopted by the Board and that the Secretary be instructed to frame a memorial to the Legislature over the seal embodying the recommendations contained in the report, and that the several members from Multnomah county be requested to give their hearty support to any bill that may be introduced at the session giving aid to the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad on the conditions named in the report The motion prevailed

MISCELLANEOUS

The Secretary stated that Mr Lord, who had been appointed a member of the Committee on Membership, was unable to serve, and desired that some one be appointed in his stead Capt A P Ankeny was appointed

The committee to whom was referred the subject of Pilotage and Towage and the Committee on Emigration, asked for further time and further time was granted

Mr Laidlaw submitted sample of telegraphic reports of breadstuff provision markets, etc which he stated could be obtained for $10 per week The matter was referred to the Committee on Finance with instructions to examine and report upon the expediency of the Board contracting to receive such telegrams daily

On motion the Board adjourned until the next regular meeting

THE SONOROUS SAND OF KAUAI

[From the San Francisco Alta California]

W B Frank of Honolulu has sent some of this trans sand taken from a bank on the Island of Kauai to the Academy of Sciences in this city In his letter he thus describes its peculiarity The bank which is composed of this sand commences at a perpendicular bluff at the south west end of the island and extends one and a half miles almost due south parallel with the beach, which is about 100 yards distant from the base of the sand bank This sand drift is about 60 feet high and at the extreme south end the angle preserves it as steep as the nature of the sand will permit The bank is constantly extending to the south It is said by the natives that at the bluff and along the middle of the bank the sand is not sonorous But at the extreme south end and for half a mile north if you slap two handfuls together there is a sound produced like the low hooting of an owl—more or less sharp according as the motion is quick or slow Sit down upon the sand and give one's self a quick circular motion, and the sound is like the heavy bass of a melodeon Kneel upon the steep incline extend the two hands and clasp as much sand as possible slide rapidly down carrying all the sand you can, and the sound accumulates as you descend until it is like distant thunder In this experiment the sound was sufficient to frighten our horses at a short distance from the base of the drift But the greatest sound we produced was by having one native lie upon his belly and another taking him by the feet and dragging him rapidly down the incline carrying as much sand as possible with them With this experiment the sound was terrific and could have been heard many hundred yards distant With all the experiments that were made it seemed the sound was in proportion to the amount of sand put in motion with a proportionate velocity Another consideration seems requisite—that is its perfect dryness The dry sand would sound on the surface, where six inches beneath it was wet but if any of the wet sand became mingled with the dry its property of sounding ceased at once The sand appears to the eye like ordinary beach sand but ordinary beach sand will not produce the sounds It has been said that it lost its sonorous properties when taken away from the bank But I can discover no diminishing of its sonorous qualities even with the bottle uncorked and we have had rain frequently and an atmosphere more than ordinarily moist for this time of year Perhaps if exposed to a very damp atmosphere it might absorb moisture enough to prevent its sounding

The Best Marksman in America.—A letter was received in San Francisco lately from Adolph Strecker, giving a few of the particulars of his victory over 2 000 marksmen from all parts of the country at Baltimore After the first two days' shooting, when he had scored more than any one else the competitors said it was luck and wouldn't hold out The next day he made 105 bull's eyes no other marksman exceeding 56 They then changed their tune and crowded around him to see that boy from California as they called him He continued steadily piling up his score and an Eastern marksman who had entered the contest sanguine of winning the first honors became so enraged that he threw his rifle over into a cornfield adjoining the shooting range and went away in disgust Strecker says he was treated very kindly by his brother marksmen at Baltimore The Chicago marksmen invited him to that city and upon his arrival gave him an enthusiastic reception and a banquet. He will arrive at San Francisco by the overland train September 4th and will have a military escort through the streets to Turn Verein Hall where a fine banquet will be spread in his honor

Sagacious Mules.—A gentleman who is too modest to allow us to use his name furnishes us the following instance of sagacity which he yesterday saw displayed by a pair of mules those curious spotted fellows belonging to Hank Blanchard Hank and John Fegan were seated in a buggy behind the mules driving along South C street near the Divide Suddenly the animals halted Whipping and coaxing were alike in vain they would not move What to make of this Hank didn't know as the mules had never before so conducted themselves Seeing that the animals constantly turned their heads in one direction Fegan began to look that way to see what it was that so strongly attracted their attention In a moment he dropped on it It was a shingle which read "Hay $23 per ton the regular retail price being $25 The mules had observed this, and could not be moved beyond it until Hank got out of the buggy went into the place and came back pretending that he had ordered 10 tons of the article at the reduced rates Then they trotted off perfectly content —Virginia Enterprise Sept 2d.

PASS ME NOT ALWAYS BY

A PENITENT'S COMMUNION HYMN

Oh sweet and gracious Master
Through pain and sharp disaster
 Through woe and bitter loss
All earthly grief forgetting
 Though [illegible] the graves they tread
Where sleep past vain regretting
 Beneath the flowers their dead

Each wears Thy crown of sorrow
 But each thy branching palm
They [illegible]
 Thy deep and holy calm
With feet that run yet faster
 As earthly mercies flee
To [illegible] suffering Master
 Abiding rest in thee

They bring no golden guerdon
 No perfume [illegible]
Sore hearts that cry for pardon
 Low at Thy cross they fling
Sore hearts that yet adoring
 [illegible] in thee shall rise—
On light of heavenly soaring—
 From earth to paradise

I see them round thee thronging
 I hear their victor hymn
And I far off and longing
 To touch thy garment's hem—
Blind by the wayside lying—
 Despairing—still I cry
Oh Saviour suffering dying
 Pass me not always by

DOES THE GOVERNMENT OWE ANYTHING TO THE ENTERPRISE AND LABOR OF THE LAND?

[From [illegible] Chronicle.]

There are a great many men who take pleasure in being regarded as statesmen whose particular and persistent policy it has been for years to prove that the Government stands in no other relation to the business of the country than to tax those who conduct it and pass stringent laws for their "regulation," without contributing in the least to their protection and encouragement. There never was a government since the days when Venice controlled the commerce of the world, which showed so little real care for its industrious classes as is displayed for the workingmen of the United States by our national authorities. Before the close of the last session of Congress the country was plunged into a crisis such as it has seldom convulsed its business circles with panic. The crisis was partly due to the indefinite and indecisive action of the Government in reference to national finances, and when the convulsion was at its worst stage it was prevented from relieving it by the question of the action of the national banks in the localities most affected declining to pay checks drawn by depositors and covering their own safety at the peril of the most reliable business men of the land. That panic was the result entirely of a miscalculation in helping through a great railroad enterprise which has been suspended not because it is impracticable or lacking in any of the elements of success, but rather because its great national character puts it beyond the ability of any combination of individuals to carry it to completion. There never would have been a railroad to the Pacific coast built had it been left to the sole management and pecuniary support of individuals, and there will never be another road completed to the same terminus without Government aid. The work is too gigantic for individuals just as the first introduction of railroads was too immense a venture for corporations to carry on, and, therefore, the work was inaugurated by the State governments in which they were located and only when the enterprise was fairly established was it safe to allow individuals to control such ventures. Pennsylvania, for instance, built railroads and canals at a great cost which she afterward sold at much less than she paid for them and yet no one would be so reckless who understood the internal improvements of that great State to say that its people lost money by this first construction and sale of their public works because there is scarcely an acre of land there which has not been increased in value by the policy thus produced.

The condition of the working classes of the country is such that relief must be speedily had or there will be inaugurated in all the great business and manufacturing [illegible] a state of society such as the American [illegible] have never yet experienced. The number of idle men, and the vast capital invested in idle machinery are not due as some political economists seek to show, to overproduction, but are rather the result of a violent and illogical suspension of production at its very height. The sudden halt in the operations on the Northern and Southern Pacific railroads was not caused by a want of trade on those avenues of transit, but rather by a lack of means and credit to carry them forward to completion and this lack of credit is to no wise due to a [illegible] in the enterprise but [illegible] that the country and the world demand the Government of the United States shall assume the full responsibility of the completion of such [illegible] enterprises rather than leave them to the sole charge of individuals. If the States originally had trusted to individuals to build railroads across their territories they never would have had them. No set of individuals could have carried through the first public [illegible] of Pennsylvania and New York, and no combination of individuals unless backed by the Government can build railroads to the Pacific or its canals to the Atlantic coast.

What we desire to impress on the mind of the reader is that in order to fully relieve the more woefully distressed labor of the land the Government must take immediate hold of a system of liberal internal improvements revive such as are demanded in certain localities and complete others now in course of construction. As a means of relieving suffering laboring men, there is no other course to pursue and as a policy to secure the already vast investments in railroads, involving the vital force of business and the source of living of two-thirds of the population of the country there can be no other proceedings adopted that will make the present safe and render the future one of happiness for the American people. The Government owes this to the people, and they feel it, so that the party which pledges itself and honestly carries out such a policy must command the support of the people everywhere. Take for instance the Northern and the Southern Pacific railroads, and let the Republican party pledge its candidates for Congress to the completion of these enterprises. What would be the effect on the people of the States through which they pass? What would be the influence on the thousands who hold their securities, and what the power on the labor waiting for employment by the resumption of operations on those roads? These questions answer themselves. It would be the proof that the Government was to be used as a proper means of relief to those who give it its best support and that its functions in the hands of a faithful party would be wielded on the side of the labor as well as the capital of the land.

The productive energies of the United States is now in a shape and a condition to require the closest relations with the Government. If it were not for the fostering care which the governments of Europe give to their laboring classes protecting their interests and encouraging their efforts, there would be idleness and starvation in all parts of the Old World where now prosperity and happiness prevail. Our country is largely made up of a European element to which accessions are annually made from all the races of the known world. Hence the more necessity for Government interposition to secure the prosperity of this homogeneous population which needs only to be employed to be enriched and from this riches the accumulation of official revenues would undoubtedly be immense beyond all calculation.

In the coming Congressional elections we hope to see the Republican party take advanced ground on all these questions. The commital of that party to a system of liberal internal improvements is just as necessary to the welfare of the whole people and the future perpetuity of the Union as were its bold defiance and opposition to treasonable war on the Government. We must speedily find employment for our idle population—we must secure work for the vast numbers that is now unused in all parts of the country—and to all this the greatest and the truest party in the Union must pledge the Government to its performance.

Mme Bazaine's Steam Yacht.—Residents of Cork and Queenstown can hardly fail to recollect that last year there lay in our waters a handsome steam yacht, schooner rigged, called the Noré Ocean belonging to the late Captain Nolan. This yacht he sold before his death (about last Christmas, we believe) and it was known that it was purchased for Mme. Bazaine, the wife of the Marshal. In all probability this was the steamer in which the Marshal's escape was effected.—Cork Examiner Aug 14

The money supply both at the commercial centers at the East and on this coast seems to be much greater than [illegible] of the year. The readiness with which all demands on our home market are met at cut rates has been not [illegible] and [illegible] thing as yet has transpired to lead to the fear that anticipations that will be realized in moving the large crops soon expected on the market. In San Francisco there are large sums seeking investment at 8 per cent, a low rate for the Pacific coast, and yet the demand there does not apparently diminish the amount obtainable. The coinage at the Mint at that place during the month of August was the largest in the history of that institution amounting to $4,320,000 of which $4,120,000 was in double eagles, $191,000 in trade dollars and $9,000 in half dollars. In the corresponding month last year the amount was $2,131,000 including $2,020,000 in double eagles and $111,000 in trade dollars. Since the reopening of the Mint July 1st the coinage has been $6,679,000 of which $6,180,000 was in double eagles, $40,000 in eagles, $5,000 in half eagles, $[illegible] in trade dollars and $1,000 in half dollars. The coinage last month was really $600,000 larger than reported, and that is the sum on hand this morning, but not turned over to the Superintendent. The work for the two months is actually $1,079,000 in excess of the annual capacity of the Mint as originally constructed. There was but little over time made during the month. For the first two months of the present fiscal year the amount coined was $6,[illegible],000 of which $153,000 was in trade dollars and the remainder in double eagles.

Wheat Crops Abroad.

As the news from abroad concerning the condition of the wheat crop is of interest to Oregon which this year will have a very large surplus which must find a market in Europe or be carried over to another season at great loss we examine our exchanges for news of that character with care. From them we learn that the harvests of England are not only earlier than usual but will be exceptionally prolific and of choice quality. A much larger area of ground was seeded to wheat, cultivators having been instigated by the high prices ruling for the past two years and the low condition to which stocks had run. Intelligence from France is positive that there will not only be enough for domestic consumption but a large surplus for export for which England will be the natural customer because the proximity of France will enable her to lay her surplus in the British market much cheaper than any competitor. Accounts from Germany, Hungary and Southern Russia are equally enthusiastic over the increased yield and fine quality of their several wheat crops. The United States and especially California will be remarkably prolific and will have a larger surplus for sale than in any previous year. In fact the crop year as this has been denominated will be famous for the redundancy of its wheat crops in all the great bread producing countries and as a logical result, we cannot hope to maintain such prices as have ruled for two or three years in succession. The question of freights therefore becomes an important consideration for with low freights our farmers could realize a moderate profit.

The following is copied from a letter of a prominent house dealing in grain, dated July 12 | 23, old and new style 1874, Berdiansk in the Azoff Sea South Russia. The crop this year in red and white wheat is magnificent in quantity and in quality. The oldest farmers do not remember a better crop of wheat since 1841, before the great European famine. The prices are oscillating from 7 to 9 Roubles Assig. but the presence of thirty vessels in our bay and some steamers in the wheat trade will not allow the price to drop much, even if the English market should decline. No buyers for delivery could be found fearing a repetition of '49 when there was neither price for wheat nor freight for vessels. Our crops all over Russia have been earlier than ever. If there should be any rise it will not be before December or January.

Miscellaneous.

The San Francisco Commercial Herald, of last Thursday says "Tonnage is now quite plentiful both disengaged and otherwise. Freights are quite nominal. We hear of a recharter of a ship to Liverpool at £3 the party making the charter losing £1 on the original charter. The three vessels now loading barley are said to be on owner's account. There now several &c. is here on demurrage paying $100 per day for detention.

Ship Agra at San Francisco changed her charter from wheat to Liverpool taking barley to New York instead. The grain charter of ship Dexter at same port 1[illegible] has been canceled.

The only charter of a grain carrying vessel in San Francisco reported up to Thursday of last week was the Oberon 1,[illegible] tons at £4.

The bark Alumin which has her cargo almost finished will be the first grain ship to leave our port this season. She is loaded by Kinney & Sons of Salem and will carry about 20,000 bushels.

Quotations for standard brands of extra flour are now about as high here as in San Francisco.

Shipping Intelligence.

The following grain carrying vessels are at this port now: Moonbeam, Orissa, Hermine, Alumina, Arbutus, Huntly Castle, Satlara, St. Nicholas, Murianne, Brighton, Ramolino and Elizabeth Dougall, and the Beulah and Middlesex are down the river, the former at Westport, the latter at Astoria.

The schooner Hera left San Francisco for this port on the 4th.

The Ajax from San Francisco will be due to-morrow night.

The bark Rival has gone down the river to load for San Francisco.

The bark Elizabeth Dougall from Auckland arrived yesterday at this port to load wheat for Europe.

The schooner Oregonian is discharging cargo at Central wharf.

The barks Jane A Falkingburg and Mattie Macleay both destined for Honolulu, have gone down the river. The latter probably went to sea to-day.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—As above intimated some little indications of a recovery from the inactive condition of the market in this cereal have manifested themselves in the past two or three days but as yet the transactions have been limited to comparatively small lots mostly purchased in the interior on terms equivalent to about $1 50 per cental delivered here in sacks. By our next review we expect to have some considerable activity in this department of trade to report but aside from the small movements referred to nothing has transpired during the past week.

EGGS—Receipts have been lighter and with a lessened demand for shipping prices have become weak at 25c per dozen.

FLOUR—There are not very large stocks on hand here but some additions have been made during the week now specially under review and prices are rather weaker though choice extras are still held at a higher figure than in San Francisco. Although wheat is so low quotations for flour are still given at $[illegible] 50 ⅌ bbl for standard extras $[illegible] for country brands and $[illegible] for superfine.

GREEN APPLES—The market is tolerably well supplied with quotations ranging from 3[illegible]c to [illegible]c ⅌ bushel.

HIDES—The receipt of hides and pelts continue as usual quite free. We quote prime dry hides at [illegible] ⅌ lb green [illegible] cull 10@11c.

WOOL—There are no transactions worthy of note although occasionally a lot finds its way to market. Quotations remain unchanged and range from 22c to 30c according to quality.

OATS—The market is active with a fair demand for shipping purposes. Prices are a little downward in their tendencies. Quotations are 4[illegible]c ⅌ bushel for good white and 40c for black.

BARLEY—The local transactions are of a trivial character and the market is controlled by brewers. We quote best lots at $1 40@1 50 ⅌ cental including sacks. Feed lots are worth about $1 [illegible]@1 40.

FEED—The market is well supplied with the exception of chops. Prices are firmer. There has been considerable demand for the Sound trade. Quotations are: Bran $14, chops and shorts $2[illegible], middlings $30 ⅌ ton.

HAY—We note the receipt of several large lots which find sale at $10 ⅌ ton for baled timothy $[illegible] 10 for loose, $7 for wild.

POTATOES—There is no lack in the supply of varieties. Prices range from [illegible] to [illegible]c ⅌ bushel.

ONIONS—The receipts have materially increased, [illegible] being now quotable at $1@1 [illegible] ⅌ 100 lbs and choice $1 [illegible].

BACON—Hams and shoulders, though not so plentiful as some time ago, are yet obtainable, but sides are very scarce and firm at quotations. For good country cured we quote hams at 1[illegible]@1[illegible]c, shoulders [illegible]@10c, sides 1[illegible]@1[illegible]c.

LARD—The demand for a good article of fresh is fair at [illegible] ⅌ lb in kegs or tins.

BUTTER—The market is fairly supplied with good grades. Table, in rolls, in good demand at [illegible]. Shipping grades are [illegible].

CHEESE—[illegible] choice brands.

BISHOP HAVEN'S PRESENT

TESTIMONIAL FROM FRIENDS AT MARTHA'S VINEYARD

A correspondent writing from Martha's Vineyard Camp Ground, says: The new and elegant cottage on Clinton avenue, which has recently been purchased for Bishop Haven, at a cost of $2,500, was formally presented to him [illegible] evening. A large number of [illegible] gathered at the cottage at an early hour. [illegible] [illegible] Esq., of [illegible] made [illegible]. The Rev Dr Tiffany, pastor of the Metropolitan Church, Washington was introduced, who said he positively [illegible] one of the great bores of the evening. [illegible] Another song was sung by "The Little [illegible]" Rev Dr Upham, of Lynn, [illegible] was introduced who told a story of the Bishop at the golden wedding of his father and mother Gilbert, he [illegible] make the presentation speech. Stepping forward and [illegible] amid the profusion of [illegible], he said: "Father and mother here are some things for you." So I say to you, said Dr. Upham, "Here is a cottage and some things in it for you." Bishop Haven was called for and made one of his most happy, characteristic speeches, which it is impossible to report. He closed by saying the cottage was not his own, but belonged to his friends. He welcomed them all to it without ceremony at all hours of day and night and expressed the hope that arrangements would be made to keep the cottage open during the entire season whether he was here or not. He desired that the light of it should never go out while there was light in any of the cottages around. After the Bishop's speech Miss Mary [illegible] Hamilton, of Boston, sung "Fly forth, O, gentle dove."

A STORY OF PRINCE BISMARCK.—A Saxon military band gave a private performance before Prince Bismarck a few weeks ago in Berlin just prior to his departure for Kissingen, and one of its members has furnished a Dresden paper with an account of their reception by him as follows: [illegible] showed us [illegible] his house and pointing to a desk in the Princess' room told them his wife, as they might observe, kept the [illegible]. He had from the beginning entrusted her with the charge of his money affairs, while he attended to politics, and he would advise every married man to do the [illegible] taking no more than his wife gave him. Drawing a table out of a corner he said "At this table M. Thiers, M. Favre and I played a dummy game at whist. That dummy was won partly owing to you Saxons, for if all had not been so brave I should have held no trumps in my hand. When we began to negotiate the gentlemen would not understand my French because I demanded too much whereupon I spoke German to them, and that they would not at first properly understand but at last we agreed. They conceded everything and when they had signed their names to it I again spoke French to them. Had we been united 500 years ago we need not have been tyrannized over by the French, but now thank God, we are united and I hope we shall remain so. If they once more require it we shall again give them a fall." Alluding to the war of 1866 the Prince said he had always respected the Saxons for they above all had the [illegible] go to [illegible] when all [illegible] brothers had lost their heads. "You must see," he said, "that it could not be helped. We were forced to find out which of us was the [illegible]."
